Deploying Super Teams

To build tech solutions

WithYouWithMe and EY work together to offer organizations access to 'Super Teams' to deliver large and complex technology projects to Defence and Government.

The EY x WYWM alliance combines the expertise and leadership of senior EY consultants with the technical experience and scalable capability of WYWM. Utilizing veterans with military experience contributes to the deeper understanding of internal processes and policies.

We work together strategically to capture long-term opportunities, develop strategic solutions and deliver them through our ready-made workforce.

The challenge

Many consultants simply build a product and hand it over, which can hamper internal adoption and inhibit the sustainable evolution of a product over its lifetime. This has resulted in products being built for the needs of an organization at the time, without scope for changing functionality and user requirements. Furthermore, while strategic consultants have the vision to develop complex solutions, the digital skills gap has traditionally made it difficult for the projects to be seamlessly delivered.

The solution

An EY x WYWM Super Team is made up of senior EY managers, and a team of trained WYWM developers and technologists to enable the delivery of large, complex projects to Defence and Government. These Super Teams allow EY to drive and direct WYWM's net new talent by embedding a senior person with the skills and experience to identify opportunities, map effective roadmaps and deliver sustainable solutions. Once the solution is built, it is either handed over to the organization, along with appropriate training, or the team of technologists can be absorbed into the organization as permanent staff.

Building Super Teams with EY enables us to mobilize massive talent to solve problems and transfer the solutions to the organization.

Super team fly wheel

The flywheel effect illustrates the accelerative actions of consistent small wins that build on each other over time. The flywheel eventually gains so much momentum that growth is self driven and sustainable.
